What is an Apprenticeship?

An apprenticeship is industry-based training that allows students to learn a trade through a combination of on-the-job and in-classroom training. In NWAC's NAP, apprenticeships will only be offered in Red Seal classified trades.

NWAC's NAP gives you access to:

- ✓ A job board with a variety of apprenticeship opportunities.
- ✓ Employers who prioritize diversity and inclusion.
- ✓ Transferable skills that allow you to work anywhere.
- ✓ Opportunities to work in high paying, in-demand, and secure job fields, with the opportunity for self-employment.

About the Program: The Native Women's Association of Canada's National Apprenticeships Program connects Indigenous women, Two Spirit, transgender, and gender-diverse people with paid apprenticeship opportunities in the trades. Our program was developed to facilitate Red Seal apprenticeship opportunities with companies who share our view that women's economic empowerment is vital in reconciliation.

Kick-start your career as you gain experience in some of Canada's most in-demand fields!
